Scalable Synthesis of Ultra-thin Bi_2O_3 Nanosheets with a Large Area and High Metallic Conductivity for Flexible Transparent Electrodes. Ultrathin oxide semiconductors have attracted wide attention due to their unique properties and potential application in transparent electrodes, such as in large-area displays and solar cells. Herein, a facile, scalable, and cost-effective process has been developed for the preparation of ultrathin Bi_2O_3 nanosheets, which can be employed as a transparent conductive electrode for flexible optoelectronic applications. The obtained Bi_2O_3 nanosheets have very high electrical conductivity ($10-4$ S/cm) and are over 85.5% transparent, opening up a new avenue for the development of high-performance transparent electrodes for wearable and energy-harvesting applications.#!/usr/bin/env python import os import json import re import tempfile import requests import subprocess import sys if __name__ == '__main__': sys.path.insert(0, os.path.abspath("..")) from setuptools import setup, find_packages setup(name='illuminate', version='0.2', description='Illuminate is a RESTful API server', long_description=open("README.md", encoding='utf-8').read(), author='Yavor Poned
