This sport enhances health, strengthens the body and provides an excellent opportunity to develop well physically. That is why many people strive to buy boxing in Ukraine. The boxing became so popular that even many celebrities have their own clubs. Boxing is not just a sport. It's a way to show that you know how to take a punch. After all, in the ring, everything is decided on your ability and the ability to throw a punch. Of course, you have physical strength. But it's important mainly as an auxiliary one. Because most people's physical strength is so weak that they're too lazy to even use it. If you have a person in your life who's always throwing punches, you shouldn't go into a rage and punch him in the face in return. That way you can only lose and be a fool. But there is always a way out: you have to learn to take a punch and be able to withstand it. Of course, in the first place the brain must react to the blow correctly. However, according to scientists, at the moment of impact the human brain is at the limit of its capacity, and therefore it must be given time to rest and recover. That's why we should try not to get into such situations when we are attacked. But if we are already in such a situation, then we were attacked by a rabid dog or a maniac, then even in this case we must know how to react correctly. So, how to properly handle an attack: 1. Do not hide from the opponent, even if we are afraid. 2. Keep calm. 3. Don't rush, don't fuss. 4. Hide behind cover if possible. 5. When the enemy approaches, we give the signal "Stop! Who's coming? ", and when the enemy appears - "Identify yourselves", "Weapons on the ground!", "Don't move!" - with the command "Everybody down!". 6. If possible, watch where the enemy is going. 7. Do not look around when the enemy passes nearby. 8. Don't look at the enemy's back if he passes by. 9. If the enemy has gone into cover, give the signal and take a position behind cover. 10. Do not make eye contact with the enemy. 11. 11. If there is no cover, kneel or crouch down on the floor with your weapon up and your barrel horizontal with your elbows at your sides. 12 Do not fire without a command or into the back. 13. Do not step away from the weapon without orders or commands. 14. If the enemy comes in from behind, then. 1. Do not step away from a weapon without orders or commands. 2. If the enemy comes in from behind, then 1. Do not step away from your weapon without orders or commands. 2. If the enemy comes from behind, then 2. If the enemy has come from behind, then Do not step away from the weapon without orders or commands; If the enemy came from behind, then 1. Do not step away from weapons without orders or commands; 1. Do not step away from a weapon without orders or commands; 2. Shoot the enemy without aiming. If this is not enough, pull the trigger as far as it will go. The gun must be in automatic mode, i.e. the trigger must be pulled and there must be a round in the barrel; If the enemy is in front, then 1. Do not move away from the weapon without orders or commands; 2. Shoot the enemy in the stomach. If not enough, pull the trigger as far as it will go. The gun must be in automatic mode, i.e., the trigger must be pulled and there must be a round in the barrel; Just in case, set the firing mode switch to the "single fire" position; After the safety is disengaged, hold the pistol in your hands and engage the safety. To do this, press the front of the gun, and the safety flag should lock in that position; Turn the safety flag back as far as it will go, after which the trigger can be completely released. Keep the gun clean and dry while cleaning it.
