Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an in-line type heat exchanger, and more particularly, to an in-line type heat exchanger which is a core type heat exchanger. 2. Description of the Related Art In general, a heat exchanger is a device for transferring heat from one fluid to another fluid through a heat transfer member, such as fins. Recently, as a result of rapid growth in the number of vehicles on the road, a heat exchanger has been developed in which the heat exchanger has a high heat transfer rate. In the heat exchanger, a core is formed by stacking a plurality of fin plates, and fins are mounted to the core and the fins serve to increase heat transfer efficiency. FIG. 1 is a perspective view of a heat exchanger according to the related art. Referring to FIG. 1, a fin plate 4 includes a number of grooves 1 formed by a cutting process and a heating process, a hollow chamber 2 formed by bending the fin plate 4 at a corner thereof, and a bead 3 at a lower portion of the fin plate 4. A large number of the fin plates 4 are stacked to form a core. An inner side of the heat exchanger is a core where fins are arranged, and an outer side of the heat exchanger is a shell, where a fluid is supplied or discharged through the fins. The heat exchanger according to the related art can be assembled by first fixing the fin plate 4 to a shell 2a of the heat exchanger through brazing or welding.
