pound, Nivi Tanda won the UFC's inaugural featherweight tournament, but the act of losing the belt to fighter favorite Cris Cyborg has caused a rift between the two teammates.
"Cyborg is a great fighter, but I think we're two different fighters," Tanda told MMA Fighting. "I'm a wrestler. She's an MMA fighter. I'm more of a technical striker. I need to work on my striking more." Cyborg is the only fighter who has beaten Tanda in her UFC career. She won their first bout at UFC 129, and Tanda was then knocked out in the quarterfinals of the 145-pound tournament at UFC

140. Tanda says he needs to put in the work to learn how to deal with someone like Cyborg. "I'll study a lot of her fights and learn to beat her," he said. "I'll work on my striking a lot. I need to have confidence in my stand-up." Tanda said he would "like to fight Cris Cyborg again," and wants to find a way for them to work together. "I'm just focused on winning fights," he said. "I like to fight everyone." Tanda lost the title during a tough stretch of losses. He dropped three of his first five UFC fights, including a TKO loss to Chad Mendes at UFC 138. Tanda rebounded with a three-fight win streak, including a submission win over Daniel Omielanczuk at UFC on FUEL TV 4. He is coming off a unanimous decision win over Ricardo Funch in November, and Tanda says he is looking forward to winning that fight. "It felt good, and I feel like I'm getting better," he said. "I feel I'm getting closer to my goal. I don't feel nervous at all." Ulioni: The major flaw in his game is his head movement, with big targets on his chin for judges. However, head movement is a surprisingly difficult aspect of striking to practice. To create a solid habit, Ulioni aims to practice only

annotation {#sec0080}

Our approach relies on filtering and manual annotation to get a suitable set of features for the learning phase. These two processing steps are critical to define an effective filter to select features and to have a correct set of ground-truth references. However, the presence of noise and lack of reliable ground truth for some of the features make the human annotation process arduous, time-consuming and liable to error. Nevertheless, our experimental results show that the performance of our classification algorithm on a small dataset of videos (38 in total) is comparable to the ones of previous works which used a large dataset of recorded video examples. If more precise annotations were available, we would expect a better performance. In particular, to improve the performance of the classification algorithm we would the usefulness of JAERI by analyzing the semen data of spermatozoa and seminal plasma of human volunteers.

The significant data and the correlation between the number of spermatozoa and  $Mg^{2+}$  in the semen were analyzed. The computer could count more than 99% of the spermatozoa in the semen with a constant acceptable error. The mean number of spermatozoa with  $Mg^{2+}$
