Team of the Year The teams of the year are determined by the players' likeness to their real-life team and the authentic teams' performance. Sandoval and Burns face off In addition to the teams of the year, FIFA 22 also introduces a number of new game modes such as the Champions League, the UEFA Champions League and the UEFA Europa League. Players have the option to compete for their favorite player in one of the three tournaments, which are available in the following year's games: LAFC vs LA Galaxy: 2018 Liverpool vs Chelsea: 2017 Sevilla vs Atletico Madrid: 2017 Team of the Year Feature Team of the Year is the culmination of all the gameplay improvements, the new game modes, and the teams of the year. FIFA 22 addresses many of the issues fans have brought to the FIFA development team's attention, including gameplay issues, crashing the game, and connection issues. The development team has put in the time to balance and optimize the gameplay as much as possible. The developers sought to keep the gameplay as close to the real-life gameplay as possible and make the controls as accurate as possible. Zlatan teaches FIFA 22 The developers' efforts to help players master FIFA 22 more easily are reflected in the game's controls. Players can pick up the game with the most minimal of experience and play like a pro within an hour of installation. For players who want to take things a step further, training mode, the training assistant feature and the virtual pro system offer a number of drills, coaching and training tutorials to help players optimize their soccer game. The new RealGravity Vision feature captures players' movements in real life to help them run with the ball more efficiently. Players will notice how they hit the ball with their foot while running, and they can use the new catch system to anticipate and catch the ball. The new RealGravity Vision feature Motions captured by the RealGravity Vision system come directly into the game, and players can use them for a number of different movements in the game. Players can use the RealGravity Vision to steer around defenders or take the ball to the top of the box. They can also use RealGravity Vision to indicate to their teammates where the ball is going to be (left or right) or position themselves properly before receiving the ball.
