

What Are the 5 Major Components of a Term Paper?

A term paper is based on an extensive analysis of current research. Term papers are set towards the end of a term and require you to focus on a prompt. Make sure you go through the prompt at least thrice like any accomplished essay writer would and make a list of all the requirements the prompt has made. Also, check the rubric and add it to the list of term paper requirements. Double and triple-checking would ensure that your prompt is aptly followed and no component of the rubric is left ignored.

The instructions for your term paper led you to the first step of your term paper. The first step, like any piece of academic writing, is to conduct a literature review. Before you start with the literature review, you need to ensure that you have taken in the subject matter or the topic you need to address. Different term papers need you to cater to different requirements.

Some of them are critical analyses while others are literature reviews. Term papers based on reviews and thematic analysis are also common. You will conduct the kind of literature review that caters to the requirements of your term paper. If I were to write my essay, I would make sure I get my prewriting done right on time! Prewriting allows you to be organized.

The Intriguing Introduction...

Before you begin the review, you need to compose an introduction contextualizing your topic. The introduction will define the topic and subject matter while delineating the objectives of your paper. In this section, you will inform the reader of the questions you attempt to explore in your paper and the kind of inferences you expect to draw.

You will provide the outline of the course your paper will follow. When you are done with the introduction, make sure you have developed the right links and connections. A well-connected introduction sets the stage for a cogent and logically related paper. Getting the first section right will allow you to get the rest of the sections properly and aptly aligned without a hitch!

The Laudable Literature Review...

After you have nailed that introduction, you need to allow yourself to allocate ample time to research. An extraordinary literature review is one that carries with it enough description of all the resources you have studied to gain insight into the status of current research regarding your topic. These are more than just summaries. If needed you can always search, "I need assignment help?" to get help from professionals.

Each description has to contain an evaluation of all the papers or research articles you choose to review. Don't forget to compare the findings across all articles along with their methodologies. While you are at it, you should also delve into reasons you think the paper under discussion has been useful in the whole scheme of your term paper! If you have ticked all the above-mentioned boxes, chances are, you have written an immensely well-conceived and well-executed paper.

The Methodical Methodology...

Now would be the time for this introduction to segue into a methodology. The methodology has to trace the steps of your term paper. Discuss the steps you have taken to reach the goals of your analysis of review. You could discuss the theoretical framework, the articles or sources you have selected for the review, the mode of analysis, the exclusion and inclusion criteria for your review or analysis.

The Detailed Discussion...

Now comes the time for you to launch into a detailed discussion of the inferences you have drawn from your analysis or review. The discussion does so by linking what you have found to what has been revealed by already published studies on the matter. This corroborates the point you are trying to make and validates the thesis you have set for your paper. After the thesis has been corroborated and explained, you are ready to conclude your paper.

Some term papers need a results section before they move on to the chapter of discussion. The choice to either include or forgo the chapter depends upon the prompt or requirements of your term paper.

The Referential References...

All through your term paper, you need to make sure you cite resources properly in the right place. Academic writing of all kinds requires you to give credit where it is due. If you end up using ideas or bits of information you have not come up with or generated yourself, you are committing a theft of intellectual property. Plagiarism is illegal and unethical and it can result in strict, irreversible disciplinary actions against you. Cite the sources according to the required format.

A list of references is needed at the end of your paper. This list includes full reference entries for all the sources you may have used throughout your paper. Make sure you get these right and adhere to the required format to avoid losing your grade only because you have failed to attend to something as minute as the right format.

The term paper comes under the heading of formal academic writing and needs to use formal language. Don't use any pronouns other than the third person to keep the writing from becoming personal. The tone needs to be objective. You are not allowed to add your personal opinions without framing them in formal language and backing them with evidence.

Allow yourself enough time to be able to revise and edit the term paper, creating an improved draft after each revision. Once you are done, you can breathe a sigh of relief and pat yourself on the back! You have accomplished the unthinkable. You have gotten through a major academic piece. All in one piece with your sanity intact!
